

Native Plant Master Program Announces 2012 Classes

The Native Plant Master[®] Program has announced a newly expanded 2012 schedule of offerings at multiple locations across Colorado. Explore a new park by taking an award-winning Native Plant Master course. Sample one of the exciting classes taught by CSU faculty and other experts. Topics include basic botany, native plant landscaping, invasive weeds, native lawns, poisonous plants, alpine/subalpine plants and more.

Register early as many of these popular offerings will have waiting lists later in the season. See www.conativeplantmaster.org for more details and to register. Not all classes are available at all locations.

See the Colorado Plant Database at <http://coloradoplants.jeffco.us> for research-based information on more than 1,000 Colorado plants. For information about the Native Plant Master Program, contact Yinyan Huang at 303-271-6620 or yhuang@jeffco.us.

Colorado State University Extension provides information and education and encourages the application of research-based knowledge in response to local, state and national issues. Extension programs are available to all without discrimination. Learn more about Colorado State University Extension at www.ext.colostate.edu.