

Repeat Photography

The idea behind a re-photography project is to document the changes that occur in a setting over time. Choose a plant, landscape, or building to take pictures of and see how they change over time. Try taking a picture once per day, week, or even month. Observe how the subject changes over time.

Send us your projects!

Do you have a repeat photography project you want to share? Send your images along with your name and age to joanne.littlefield@ext.colostate.edu

Repeat Photography Tips

- Choose a landmark in the distance
- Shoot from same spot (step off if necessary)
- Vary time of day